Project

Somorrostro technical school aims to promote or participate in a gender equality project related to occupational segregation.

- Our main training families are industry-related occupations where the presence of women is low. Approximately only 8% of students in Industrial Courses are women, whereas men represent 92%.
- We aim at attracting women to the industrial diplomas in the short term as our labour market calls for an urgent incorporation of women to these sectors through different activities: specific training for educators and counsellors, development of didactic materials and revising courses and infrastructures hindering equality.
- Somorrostro provides also secondary education, thus our project could tackle 2 transition stages: from secondary school to VET/University and from VET to the labour market.
- Our school provides counselling and guidance services to students and replacement services. In 2015 the school has managed over 1500 job offers being certified by our Labour Ministry.
- Somorrostro counts with a Gender Equality department offering consulting services to schools and city councils mainly on gender issues:
 - o Training for civil servants, families, teachers, youngsters.
 - o Diagnosis, equality plans and protocols to prevent gender violence in city councils and private companies.
 - o Technical Assistance in gender equality.

- Co-education workshops in schools.
- Awareness raising campaigns for public institutions.
- Promotion of dialogue among stakeholders.
